REVIEW OF THE ARTICLE

Performance Of Handloom Units In Kalaburagi (Gulbarga) District

Rachappa¹ and Dr. M. P. Naik²

ABSTRACT:

The problem statement was clear and well articulated The handloom industry is the oldest and the most widely spread rural industry in India. This industry plays significant role in growth and development of economy of our country. Handloom industries not only create employment opportunities and proper utilisation of raw materials but also contribute in the national income and removal of regional imbalances. These industries are not only producing goods but also supplying ancillary goods to large industries.

INTRODUCTION:

The introduction provides a good, generalized background of the topic that quickly gives the reader an appreciation The Handloom Sector is one of the largest unorganized economic activities after agriculture and constitutes as an integral part of the rural and semi-rural livelihood. Handloom weaving is largely decentralized and the weavers are mainly from the helpless and weaker sections of society, who generally weave for their family requirements.

METHODOLOGY:

The present study was exclusively realized on secondary data sources. It was purely descriptive type of research since it describes the facts relating to the problem. The study is analytical in nature. Analysing the performance is crux of the study. Both primary and secondary data are used. Primary data is collected by administering a structured questionnaire of handloom units. The study population constituted all the handloom units in Gulbarga district.

PRESENTATION OF RESULTS:

The amount of data presented was sufficient and appropriate. Tables, graphs, or figures were used judiciously and agree with the text Handloom business an integral part of cottage industry as it directly affects the development of the national economy. It is predominantly clustered in rural areas of the district. It requires very minimum capital and creates more employment to the people. It can be inferred from the current paper that the performance of handlooms in quite growing but there is a need for more government facilities like providing new machinery, proper infrastructure and sufficient raw materials.
