ARTICLE REVIEW REPORT

A Comparative Study On Essential Qualities, Role And Responsibilities Of A Teacher In Ancient Education System.

Bappa Datta

ABSTRACT:

The problem statement was clear and well articulated. It is almost a proverbial truth that the destiny of a nation is decided in a classroom. If a classroom is a temple, a teacher is almost a priest. Thereby, the role of a teacher inside or outside the classroom cannot be overlooked. A teacher is the backbone for a society which determines the lastingness of the posterity. The articulation of the name 'teacher' brings in our mind the idea of responsibility, love, affection, cordiality, liberal distribution of knowledge and the building of the moral stamina of the learners.

INTRODUCTION:

The introduction provides a good, generalized background of the topic that quickly gives the reader an appreciation. Who is a teacher? In our days, the definition of a teacher is not limited to classroom teaching and performance. It has now a much wider connotation. Anyone, among our close acquaintance, can be a teacher. They all perform an important role in familial education. But now a days a person who teaches in an institution is considered a teacher.

METHODOLOGY:

The present study was exclusively realized on secondary data sources. It was purely descriptive type of research since it describes the facts relating to the problem. In linguistics, the comparative method is a technique for studying the development of languages by performing a feature –by-feature comparison of two or more languages with common descent from a shared ancestor, as opposed to the method of internal reconstruction, which analyzes the internal development of a single language over time.

PRESENTATION OF RESULTS:

The amount of data presented was sufficient and appropriate. Tables, graphs, or figures were used judiciously and agree with the text. From the above study, it can be concluded that, in ancient India the teacher or Ācharya is as respectable as the father. He discharges the duties of the guardian and hence holds an important place in the development of a student.

REFERENCES:

Prior publication by the author(s) of substantial portions of the data or study was appropriately acknowledged.

RELEVANCE:

The study was relevant to the mission of the journal or its audience. The study addresses important problems or issues; the study was worth doing.
