Chuang TZU : THE YIN YANG SCHOOL

In Chuang Tzu's own language, true knowledge is "great knowledge," and great knowledge is "wide and comprehensive" By this he meant that the mind "makes no distinctions, entertains no subjectivity, but abides by the universal."

Separation is the same as construction : Construction is the same as destruction"

Generally speaking, "the this is also the that, and the 'that' is also the this. From the stand point of "mutual causation", the that is produced by the this and the this is caused by the that.

This is to say that "Birth comes from death and death comes from birth", that "where there is possibility, there is impossibility", that the right comes from the wrong and wrong comes from the right.

The Mind School: Lu Hsiang - Shan And Wang Yang - Ming

The philosophy of the mind school already took definite form in Lu Hsiang - Shan (1139-1193), who said, "The universe is identical with my mind, and my mind is identical with the universe". This is because both the mind and the universe are conceived as expressions of the moral law.

"There is no moral law beyond events and there are no events beyond the moral law."

This idealistic tendency developed until it reached its climax in Wang Yang-Ming (1473-1529) to whom the mind and reason are one and the same thing. The mind itself is identical with reason. The controlling power of the body is the mind. When the idea rests on serving one's parents, then serving one's parents is a thing... Therefore, I say that there is neither reason nor thing apart from the mind.

"The original nature of the mind is perfectly good. The mind of the sage is like a bright mirror, where as the mind of the ordinary man is like a dull mirror. The mind has the native ability to know

What are the main ideas of Chuang Tzu?

Chuang Tzu saw absolute power as a problem, and promoted the idea that individuals have the right to seek their own salvation. This emancipation of the individual and self-expression were central tenets of his school of thought.

What does Chuang Tzu say about death?

Life is between heaven and earth, work and death are extremely natural things, should be frankly. Chuang Tzu said, "So good my life, is so good I die also." Living a sound life, but to enjoy the death of a complete; certainly raw, so sure to die; death value depends on born sure; Depends on giving birth.

What was Chuang Tzu's dream? What is the book of Chuang Tzu about?

Summary. The Book of Chuang Tzu draws together the stories, tales, jokes and anecdotes that have gathered around the figure of Chuang Tzu. One of the great founders of Taoism, Chuang Tzu lived in the fourth century BC and is among the most enjoyable and intriguing personalities in the whole of Chinese philosophy.

What is the meaning of construction and demolition?

Construction and demolition (C&D) waste is generated from construction, renovation, repair, and demolition of houses, large building structures, roads, bridges, piers, and dams. C&D waste is made up of wood, steel, concrete, gypsum, masonry, plaster, metal, and asphalt

Warren Buffett Says You Can Ruin Your Life in 5 Minutes by Making 1 Critical Mistake

The Oracle of Omaha offers valuable advice about Challenging and stressful situations.

"It takes 20 years to build a reputation and five minutes to ruin it. If you think about that, you'll do things differently.":- Warren Buffett,

What was Wang Yangming's philosophy?

Wang's legacy in Neo-Confucian tradition and Confucian philosophy as a whole is his claim that the fundamental root of social problems lies in the fact that one fails to gain a genuine understanding of one's self and its relation to the world, and thus fails to live up to what one could be.

"Construction versus Destruction"

- It takes months to gain respect, credibility or trust and it takes minutes to lose it.
- It takes years to build wealth and it takes minutes to lose it.
- It takes years to build a business and it takes just a few days to lose it.
- It takes months to become healthy and it takes just days to lose it.

- It takes years to establish peace and and it takes minutes to destroy it.

You get the gist. To create anything of value takes time and effort and that thing of value can be lost or destroyed in a very short time, usually minutes. The 80:20 principle works in this context too. It took 3 years and 10,000 people to build the World Trade Centre and 3 maniacs destroyed the twin towers within 3 hours... Sadly, the Owner of the Empire State Building predicted in 1967 that a plane would fly into the WTC.

In my view, people's overwhelming desire and short-cut approaches for quick wins, insatiable greed and lust and uncontrolled anger and intolerance are what contribute to the ever increasing pace of destruction. Should we not slow down and be more thoughtful and content with what we have than try to run faster on life's treadmill only to chase faster destruction?

Only a fire wall can create separate buildings to allow the use of different construction types. Can you downgrade the existing construction type to the new ,, if all the other variables work and nothing has to be done to the existing?

Kind of like the number 2 in 101 The least fire-resistive type of construction of the connected portions, if no such separation. There are positive and negative elements present all around us. Construction qualifies under positive elements while destruction is under negative elements. Construction takes time and efforts while destruction can be done quickly. There are many people in the world who have a destructive mind and negative tendency. They do a lot of harm to the society and people.

It is obvious that we should remain in the positive territories and avoid any destructive thought. Knowledge is power.
